

Medical Release – Anesthesia

Has your pet been fasted? Y N

We recommend a pre-operative/pre-anesthetic blood panel to make sure that the patient is in sufficient health to undergo anesthesia or sedation. This also assists us in determining a tailored anesthetic protocol for your individual pet based on any abnormalities indicated by the bloodwork. If your pet is over 7 years of age this is required.

Can we provide your pet with a bloodwork panel today? Y N

Basic pre-op OR Advanced panel? Basic ($65) Advanced ($85)

We also recommend that an IV catheter and IV fluids be administered to your pet while it is under anesthesia today. The fluids will correct mild dehydration that anesthesia will cause as well as provide an emergency port into the vein in the case an emergency should arise. If your pet is over 7 years of age this is required. The additional fee for IV fluids is $55.
